OPEN RECOMMENDATIONS FROM PRIOR REPORTS

SIGIR has identified four audit areas in which implementation of SIGIR open recommendations would significantly enhance the impact of U.S. reconstruction activities in Iraq and better ensure that U.S. efforts are conducted in an efficient and effective manner to avoid waste. These include:

- the transfer of reconstruction projects to the Government of Iraq (GOI)
- the management of the U.S. Embassy's anticorruption program
- ministerial capacity development
- Commander's Emergency Response Program

SIGIR followed up on these four audit areas. Although actions are underway in some areas to address SIGIR's concerns, it is too early to determine whether the actions will effectively address the problems identified in the SIGIR reports. Consequently, SIGIR is keeping most of its recommendations open.

The Transfer of Reconstruction Projects to the GOI

Since 2006, SIGIR has issued seven reports that examined the U.S. process for transitioning completed construction projects to the GOI. In each of these reports, SIGIR has made recommendations to improve plans, policies, and procedures for the transfer of assets to the GOI to better ensure that the GOI will maintain and sustain the assets so that the U.S. investment will not have been wasted. Specifically, SIGIR called for all agencies involved in reconstruction to follow one set of uniform and transparent policies and procedures for asset transfer to eliminate potential GOI confusion in working with the various U.S. reconstruction agencies, and to take specific actions to enhance GOI capabilities and willingness to assume responsibility for U.S.-built facilities.

In January 2009, U.S. and GOI officials signed a memorandum of understanding purportedly outlining how U.S.-funded projects will be executed and handed over to the Iraqis. Because the agreement was signed close to the completion of this report, SIGIR has not seen the agreement, but a published summary reported that issues such as planning, preparing, and coordinating reconstruction projects will now be undertaken jointly. SIGIR plans to follow-up on the asset transfer issue and assess the effect of the new agreement and the progress made in resolving open recommendations.

In the most recent review, completed in April 2009, SIGIR noted that although U.S. agencies had made efforts to improve plans, policies, and procedures for the transfer of assets, they had been unable to agree on a uniform set of procedures. SIGIR found little progress on creating uniform policies and procedures. However, some progress has been made on reaching an agreement with the GOI on an asset-transfer process.

Managing the U.S. Embassy's Anticorruption Program In Iraq

Endemic corruption in Iraq is a serious roadblock in the country's development as a functioning democracy and a problem requiring a strong U.S. assistance program. In 2006, SIGIR reviewed the U.S. anticorruption program and identified problems in coordinating, managing, and evaluating U.S. activities of more than a dozen U.S. agencies and recommended 12 management improvements. Since that report, SIGIR has monitored U.S. progress in implementing the recommendations and found that the Embassy has implemented 5 of SIGIR's 12 recommendations, leaving 7 open recommendations. Still not fully addressed is the recommendation to ensure that all U.S. government initiatives are working toward a common goal in the most efficient and effective manner, and that all programs are vetted through the anticorruption coordination group.

SIGIR saw several developments in the U.S. anticorruption initiative. SIGIR reported in July 2008 that the U.S. Embassy had identified $10 million in expired Iraq Relief and Reconstruction Fund (IRRF) funds to support its anticorruption efforts. In February 2008, the Department of State submitted a request to the Congress for these funds, but the Congress returned the request, asking for additional details on how the money was to be used. Ultimately, these funds were approved and given to the United Nations to fund its anticorruption activities. SIGIR plans to follow up on the anticorruption issue to determine current U.S. plans and initiatives, and these recommendations will remain open until that review is completed.

Development of Ministerial Capacity

The GOI ministries have had difficulties in providing the basic services required of national governments, and a number of U.S. agencies have instituted programs to upgrade the capabilities of GOI ministerial staff. In a 2006 report, SIGIR found that these efforts were not based on needs assessments, were uncoordinated, did not have clear and measurable goals and objectives, and suffered from a lack of leadership. To address these issues, SIGIR made five recommendations to the U.S. Ambassador and the Commander, Multi-National Force-Iraq. These recommendations remained open until just recently when three were closed.

In 2008, DoS awarded a contract to assess the capacity development efforts of the various U.S. agencies. The contract, called the Iraq Ministerial Capacity Development Assessment Project, required the contractor to conduct an inventory of national capacity development training and technical assistance activities underway in Iraq, analyze the results, and identify gaps in the U.S. program. The contractor was also to make recommendations as to where activities needed to be modified, and draft a strategic plan document to inform the Embassy's development of an overall strategic plan for ministerial capacity-building activities. SIGIR has not reviewed these documents to determine if they address the remaining two open recommendations. However, SIGIR plans to conduct such an analysis, and the recommendations will remain open until that review is completed.

Commander's Emergency Response Program

Since October 2005, SIGIR has issued four reports on the Commander's Emergency Response Program (CERP). CERP authorizes U.S. field commanders to use available funds to respond to urgent humanitarian, relief, and reconstruction requirements within the commander's area of responsibility by executing programs that immediately assist indigenous populations and achieve "focused effects." Initial funding for CERP came from seized Iraqi assets and the Development Fund for Iraq. By late 2003, the United States began to appropriate U.S. dollars to the CERP and as of March 31, 2009, the Congress has appropriated about $3.58 billion for the program in Iraq.

SIGIR has made a total of 11 recommendations to improve the management and oversight of the CERP program. To date, seven of these recommendations remain open. Among the recurring problems identified in the reviews are incomplete project records and the need to plan for the sustainment of large-scale projects. CERP is an important DoD program, and SIGIR plans to review the program in FY 2009 to determine the progress made in addressing program short-comings. Until that review is complete, the recommendations will remain open.
