This quarter, SIGIR changed its methodology for calculating international (non-U.S.) contributions to Iraq reconstruction. Previously, it was calculated as the sum of assistance and loan pledges from bilateral and multilateral donors. However, pledged amounts overstate the actual international contribution because of low commitment rates from some bilateral donors and low rates of Iraqi borrowing from multilateral lenders. This quarter, SIGIR is using committed amounts to calculate the international (non-U.S.) contribution to Iraq reconstruction, and will continue to use committed amounts in future Quarterly Reports.

64. U.S. Embassy-Baghdad, Treasury Attaché, response to SIGIR data call, 7/15/2010. Oil price (rather than export volume) has been the dominant factor in determining GOI oil receipts. Data not audited. Numbers affected by rounding. Projections include ISFF, IRRF, ESF, and CERP. Projections represent appropriations less expenditures and expired funds. Projected expenditures are equal to the average expenditures, by fund, over the previous year. Projected expired funds are equal to expired funds, as of June 30, 2010. Both projections assume that Congress will appropriate the entire $1.00 billion in FY 2010 supplemental appropriations for ISFF. The second projection also assumes that the Congress will appropriate the entire $2.58 billion in ISFF, CERP, and ESF appropriations for FY 2011. SIGIR's current projection is a refinement of the projection presented in the October 2009 SIGIR Quarterly Report to the United States Congress, which projected that major U.S. reconstruction funds would be depleted at some point during FY 2012–FY 2014. SIGIR's projection of U.S. appropriations remaining for Iraq reconstruction does not include the smaller funding streams, which will become proportionally more significant as the Iraq reconstruction effort transitions to a more normal economic and security assistance mission.
111. P.L. 108-11; P.L. 108-106; P.L. 110-252; The Congress initially appropriated $18,649 million to IRRF 2, but earmarked $210 million to be transferred to other accounts for programs in Jordan, Liberia, and Sudan. The Administration transferred another $562 million for Iraq-related programs that could be implemented only in other accounts (such as bilateral debt forgiveness). In FY 2006, the Congress transferred roughly $10 million into the IRRF from the ESF. In FY 2008, P.L. 110-252 rescinded $50 million.

SIGIR calculates expired funds as appropriations less obligations, as of the expiration date. Some ESF was transferred to other agencies under the Foreign Assistance Act of 1961, Sec. 632(b). NEA-I did not indicate whether its reported obligations include such transfers, so SIGIR's calculations may overstate expired funds. In addition, NEA-I was not able to provide the complete status of funds for the $50 million in FY 2003 appropriations to the ESF; only approximately $9 million were reported obligated and expended as of June 30, 2010. It is likely that more of these funds were obligated and expended than reported, which would affect the overall status of funds and the amount of expired funds.

136. SIGIR Audit 09-011, "Opportunities To Improve Management of the Quick Response Fund," 1/29/2009, pp. 1–3. Procurements are divided into two groups: micro-procurements are limited to $25,000, and direct procurements are used for amounts larger than $25,000 (procurements over $25,000 are no longer supported by the QRF). Depending on the nature of a project and the funding mechanism used, funds may be disbursed in a lump sum or in periodic disbursements to recipients. The disbursements are made from an imprest fund maintained at each PRT. An imprest fund is a cash fund, usually of a fixed amount, established by an advance of funds from an agency finance or disbursing officer to a duly appointed cashier for disbursement as needed. PRTs usually have a QRF imprest fund ranging in value from $100,000 to $300,000. When the PRT disburses funds, the PRT cashier (referred to as a sub-cashier) prepares and forwards a package of supporting documents to the Finance Management Office, which is located in U.S. Embassy-Baghdad. The Finance Management Office reviews and processes the documents and authorizes replenishment of the funds disbursed to the PRT sub-cashier in the form of a U.S. Treasury check.

On June 11, 2010, CENTCOM transitioned the JCC-I/A to a Joint Theater Support Contracting Command (JTSCC). According to DoD, JCC-I/A's name changed to CENTCOM Contracting Command (C³). With this transition, C³ is charged with these responsibilities: serve as the Head of Contracting Activity (HCA) for Iraq and Afghanistan and as Operational Control (OPCON) of all service component contracting personnel less SOCCENT and USACE; and expand oversight to Kuwait and Pakistan, including coordination authority, Theater Business Clearance (TBC), and Contract Administration Delegation (CAD). The previously titled Principal Assistant Responsible for Contracting (PARC) is now titled the Senior Contracting Official (SCO), in accordance with joint doctrine. C³ is not a permanent organization, but will exist commensurate with major contingency operations ongoing in CENTCOM's area of operations.

When C³ is established, the Army will be designated as the executive agent for contracting for Iraq, Afghanistan, Kuwait, and Pakistan. The Assistant Secretary of the Army for Acquisition, Logistics, and Technology (ASAALT) will appoint the C³ commander as the head of contracting activity for Iraq and Afghanistan. The C³ commander will provide senior contracting authorities for Iraq and Afghanistan, who will in turn provide contracting warrants to all contracting officers within Iraq and Afghanistan.

OUSD(C) reporting of CERP projects did not account for roughly $479 million in CERP expenditures. OSUD(C) does not report CERP obligation and expenditure data for projects or project categories on a quarterly basis for all fiscal year appropriations. SIGIR pulls CERP project data from the IRMS, which lags in reporting. Therefore, category totals found in the Funding Sources subsection of this Report may not match top-line values found in this subsection and in the four subsections on major reconstruction areas.
